THE UNIFIED ENGLISH BRAILLE (UEB) CODE

The Braille Code has changed! In November of 2012, the Unified English Braille Code was adopted by the Braille Authority of North America for use in the United States, with an implementation date of January 4, 2016.

We have been working hard to convert as many of our books as possible from the old code (English Braille American Edition or EBAE) to UEB. As you will see, the first 6 sections of our catalog are filled with more than 430 books in UEB. The other sections contain our books that are still in EBAE.

We will keep you apprised of our progress (see www.seedlings.org for updates), and we thank you in advance for your patience as we work on this project. We are motivated by all of the blind children and their families who are counting on us to continue to be the place they can go for high-quality, low-cost braille books for children.

♥ "This is London (8) and her little sister Laila (2) enjoying one of London's favorite books, CHARLOTTE'S WEB. London loves to read Laila bedtime stories—a favorite Ledbetter family pastime. Without companies like SEEDLINGS, London and Laila would have both been deprived of this time honored family tradition. We are so thankful to SEEDLINGS for keeping literacy alive for kids like London. Without reading, London wouldn't have had a chance to accomplish so many things in her life so early."

♥ "I am a teacher and I have two braille students Troy, age 10 and Baron, age 12. They both love to read braille, but have very few braille books at home (and none in UEB). I would like for them to have books to read over the summer. In the last couple of weeks they have been brailling stories for each other to take home over the summer and read. Having more books provided by Seedlings for their summer reading and home libraries would be wonderful!"

♥ "My name is Hayes and I am an almost 10 year old girl that loves Braille. I love to read my Seedlings Braille books because I never find mistakes in the Braille and you always have books that entertain me.
All my books at my school library are from Seedlings and I appreciate having Braille books in my library like all the sighted kids.
Thank you so much for giving me the opportunity to have Braille books."

The UEB
Unified English Braille

In November 2012, the Braille Authority of North America (BANA) voted to adopt the Unified English Braille Code (UEB) as the official code for the United States. We will now join several other countries who adopted the UEB before us. The new code was implemented in the U.S. on January 4, 2016 and we have converted many of our books to UEB.

We started with our books for younger children (please see Page 3) and are working our way up. Some of the bigger books will still be available in the old code (EBAE). We will be sure to mark which books are in UEB. Please bear with us during this process and check our website (seedlings.org) for updates!

For more information on the UEB, see: www.brailleauthority.org

Just as we have in the past, the Seedlings staff will continue to work hard to give you high-quality, low-cost children's books in braille!

••• COMMENTS AND QUOTES •••

Thank you for your notes and photos! They keep us working hard to make more books for you!

♥ "Harry is 10 and is a dual media learner who devours any book he can get his hands on. He has been learning braille in anticipation of increased eyestrain as his reading level progresses. Receiving this gift (of free braille books) would allow for him to pick some of his favorite titles to keep and re-read as often as he likes. Thank you to the generous donors at Seedlings for giving the gift of literacy to those who truly need it."

♥ "My name is Lilith. I am 10 years old and have albinism. I love to read! Sometimes I try to read books in print, but the ones that I like to read are tiny and I can only read a couple of lines before my eyes hurt so much that I have to stop. I love to read Seedlings braille books because they do not hurt my eyes! I can let my eyes rest and give my neck a break from hunching over a book while my fingers do the reading for me. Thank you for making so many books available to kids like me."

♥ "My name is George and I am 8. I like reading braille. I do not like reading with my eyes because the words are too small. Braille is better!"

♥ "Our names are Mercy, Isaiah, and Jonah. We all are blind or have visual impairments - and we are all from China! Our mom home schools us and we have been working very hard on learning our Braille contractions this year. Some of our favorite Seedling books have been Alexander and the Terrible, Horrible, No Good, Very Bad Day; Caps for Sale; and the Riddles book. We are starting to read chapter books, so we would love to be able to order some new books."

Seedlings' History

In 1984, Debra Bonde established Seedlings Braille Books for Children as a non-profit organization because she found that braille materials were scarce and expensive. Her goals were to increase the availability and lower the cost of braille books for children in order to promote their literacy skills and their love of reading.

Since then, Seedlings has placed over 530,000 braille books into the hands of children across the U.S. and around the world.

If you are ever in the Detroit area, and want to visit, please call us: 734-427-8552! Our address is 14151 Farmington Road, Livonia, MI (just north of the corner of Farmington & Schoolcraft Roads).

SEEDLINGS' MISSION STATEMENT

SEEDLINGS BRAILLE BOOKS FOR CHILDREN is a 501(c)(3) non-profit, tax-exempt organization dedicated to increasing the opportunity for literacy by providing high quality, free and low-cost children's literature in braille.

"Our son came home to us, through adoption, in 2015. Seedlings has been a huge blessing in his life, in his English language acquisition as well as increasing his reading ability. We're a family of readers and having access to quality books in braille is invaluable and strengthens our bond as a family, as my son can also participate in reading his own books, just like his siblings. Seedlings is one of those resources that has daily impact in our lives and for that, we are very thankful."

"My daughter Brooklyn, age 10, loves to read Seedlings books! She enjoys the variety Seedlings has to offer, and she comes home from school almost everyday to tell me about what she has read.

"Seedlings is an outstanding company, giving blind children the opportunity to read books that sighted children read. I feel that Brooklyn has been given chances that she would not otherwise have if it weren't for Seedlings. Thank you so much!"
